THE FRONT COVER

Beauty and sentiment are happily combined in a cover page presentation which will need no identification for most readers of The Alumnus. The picture of the Alumni Gateway was taken by Charles L. Evans, Grafton, W. Va., a senior who will graduate this month.

From the Editor's Desk . . .

THIS ISSUE of The Alumnus is bringing you the report of the Ohio University Fund, Inc., for 1949. To those of you whose names are listed in the report, whatever the size of your contribution, your university sends warm and sincere thanks. To those who did not find it possible to contribute in 1949, may the way be open in 1950.

The student recognition, research projects, and the cultural and intellectual activities made possible by your contributions to the Fund are an essential part of the long-range plans for a greater Ohio University. The projects that the Fund supports are not provided for by appropriations from the state. But they are indispensable factors, and their presence or absence determines in no small measure the degree of greatness the university may attain.

The Ohio University Fund, Inc., depends for its continuance upon the loyalty of the alumni and friends of Ohio University. Loyalty is a term, often used vaguely, for an attitude which each of us must interpret for himself. Loyalty is "a feeling, not a concrete thing." But like faith without works, the mere "feeling" of loyalty is ineffective if not expressed concretely.

There are many ways of expressing interest in alma mater. The giving of money is but one—but it is an exceedingly helpful method.

—R. W. M.

NEWS OF the appointment of Martin L. Hecht as assistant alumni secretary (see page 9) will be received with interest and enthusiasm by the new appointee's many friends. To those to whom he is at present unknown, the secretary-editor commends him in highest terms and predicts he will not be long in making the acquaintance of hundreds, and ultimately thousands, of Ohio University alumni who will come to hold him and his talents in high regard.

Prominent as an undergraduate, "Marty" was a member of the potent Campus Affairs Committee, the Men's Union Planning Board, the Interfraternity Council and Torch.

Possessed of a pleasant personality and qualified by past experience as an organizer, he will assume responsibilities in several long-neglected fields, among which are local group organization and servicing, class reunion activities, and Senior class contacts.

The addition of Mr. Hecht, and the addition, last fall, of Bob McCreanor, '48, as assistant editor of The Ohio Alumnus, gives the Alumni Office staff a long-needed bolstering and should result in a program more nearly in line with the rightful expectations of a grand alumni constituency and the high standing of the university.

A FINE building, both from an architectural and a functional viewpoint, was added to the campus last month with the opening of the new Student Health Center. The university family—students, faculty, administration, and alumni—can be justly proud of this new structure, designed to render at maximum efficiency a service that is basic to the total welfare of the students of any university.

You can rest assured that your university's new Student Health Center, modernly equipped and expertly staffed, compares favorably with any similar service in the nation. And we hope that all of you will be able to see it when its dedication ceremonies and "open house" are held in the Spring. For those who can't come back, the Alumnus is planning a complete picture story of the building for an early issue.

FOLLOWING PAST custom space is given in the February issue of The Alumnus for the annual report of the Ohio University Fund. The class "personals" and the reports of births, marriages, and deaths have, of necessity, been omitted. Assurance is given, however, that these first-to-be-read items will appear again next month.

DEAN GEORGE J. KABAT
... of Education

Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles intended to bring alumni "up-to-date" on developments in their respective colleges and divisions at Ohio University.

The College of Education at Ohio University is a professional school. Its formal organization at Ohio University dates back to 1902. Its mission, partly implied in its title, is two-fold, first; to prepare young men and women to become competent members of the world's most respected calling—the teaching profession and, secondly, to assist schools and school patrons in offering the best educational program possible for the future citizens of Ohio and of our nation.

It has been said that artists, musicians and mathematicians, whatever their race, creed or nationality, have a common interest and speak the same "language". This is also true of teachers. Teachers the world over are given the responsibility of guiding and preparing boys and girls to develop and share the society in which they live.

The teaching profession appeals to anyone who is happy when working with people, for the welfare of people of all ages. The great contribution rendered mankind by the teaching profession through the ages has brought to it the respect which it so rightly deserves. The world can progress only so long as the accumulated knowledge of man is passed on from one generation to the next. This is the teacher's responsibility. The evaluation of man's learning and experience to determine how he can live better is necessary to assure a better world, and it is the duty of the teacher to give him an appreciation of values which will make it possible for him to choose wisely. What greater and more honorable duty could be assigned to any man.

For a Better World

In order to prepare students to accept the responsibilities and the honors of the teaching profession, the College of Education of Ohio University offers work leading to certification in the following fields: art, business education, elementary education, health and physical education, high school (the teaching of various subjects), home economics, industrial arts, kindergarten-primary, library science, music, speech, speech and hearing therapy, and vocational home economics.

The program of studies for teachers in these fields is accredited by the Department of Education of the State of Ohio. The offerings of the College of Education are also accredited by the American Association of Universities, the American Association of Teachers Colleges, the North Central Accrediting Association, and Ohio College Association.

Upon satisfactory completion of a four-year program in any of the teaching fields the College of Education grants the degree Bachelor of Science in Education. This degree represents the successful completion of a program designed to develop competence in three areas: (1) In the broad awareness of the importance of all fields of knowledge. (2) In the deeper study of the particular subject matter areas in which the student seeks undergraduate mastery necessary for teaching these subjects. (3) In the understanding of the professional responsibilities of teaching and the demonstrated skill in meeting them.

The College offers four main types of degree programs:

Elementary education. This program prepares one for teaching in the kindergarten, primary, or intermediate grades, with specialization in one of these areas. Despite the recent considerable improvements in salary and other inducements, the demand for qualified elementary teachers, both men and women, in Ohio is expected to be about three times the supply for the next five or six years.

Secondary education. This program will prepare one for teaching any of the academic fields in high school. The student who plans to teach at this level will be prepared in two or more minor teaching sub-

A Student Service

Health Center Opens

The university's Student Health Service is now functioning in its recently-completed $500,000 building, which opened just one year after construction was started. Dedication ceremonies and an "open house" will be held in the spring.

The new health center, one of the most modern to be found on any university campus, includes a complete basement and three upper floors. Of Colonial design with a tower, the red-brick, loft-type structure harmonizes with the general architectural pattern of the campus.

The main entrance of the building, located to the rear of the president's home, faces E. Union St., with an exit on College St., for vehicular traffic. The basement of the building includes a cafeteria and nurses lounge. An auditorium seating 120 has a stage and provisions for motion picture projection. The ambulance or emergency entrance is on the east side, along with kitchen storage, first aid room, physio-therapy area, additional storage space, and living quarters for student assistants who are pre-med students.

The first floor includes the doctors' library, administrative offices, X-ray room, the receiving center, laboratory, pharmaceutical and utility room, examining, minor surgery, and sterilizing rooms. The receiving center is connected with all parts of the hospital by a teletalk system which has 12 individual and eight paging outlets.

The second floor is devoted to the bed or inpatient service, with 14 rooms normally capable of accommodating 40 patients and 50 in an emergency. It includes an isolation area of five rooms. The top floor has rooms for staff members who will live at the center.

Dr. E. Herndon Hudson, director of the center, said that in the 12 months ending last May 31 more than 35,000 outpatient treatments were given at the old center in the Agriculture Building basement. In the same period, 799 students were admitted as bed patients for a total of 2,096 days, an average of 2.6 days for each patient. The center maintains a regular service schedule, but emergency facilities are available at all times.

The center's services are only for students. A semester fee of $7.50 entitles a student to use the center, which can perform nearly all medical services except major surgery.

In addition to Dr. Hudson, three other doctors are on the health center staff, which includes nine nurses, a technician, and a superintendent-matron.

jects, carefully selected in consultation with advisers or with the dean of the College, in addition to his major field.

Teaching special subjects. Such special subjects as art, commerce, home economics, industrial arts, music, physical education, or speech are ordinarily not limited to any grade level.

Combined elementary-secondary education. Through this comprehensive program, one may qualify both as an elementary school teacher and as a teacher of certain academic subjects in high school. Regular certification at both levels will be granted by the State of Ohio Department of Education to graduates of this program. This broad preparation for teaching, without undue sacrifice of subject-matter specialization, is particularly appropriate if one is looking forward eventually to posts of responsibility as a supervisor or administrator.

In view of the teacher shortage the College of Education, cooperating with the State Department of Education, offers two programs which lead to four-year provisional certificates to teach. These programs are:

The Three-year Diploma Courses, for those who wish to become kindergarten-primary or intermediate grade teachers, and the Special Cadet Program, a two-year program, which includes a broad liberal background, and concentration on direct professional preparation.

To insure the continued growth of our teaching graduates, the College of Education has an excellent field service available to teachers, principals, and Superintendents. The results of research and experimentation in education carried on at this College and at colleges of education and teachers colleges throughout the nation are available at Ohio University.

The number of alumni of the College of Education who join with alumni of other teacher training institutions to return here for graduate work in education and related fields is large indeed. The program of graduate studies is being constantly enlarged so that the needs of students in all areas of educational specialization may be met.

The faculty of the College of Education at Ohio University who are responsible for the excellent achievement which has been made here are proud of the role they have played. Those who have joined its ranks more recently are honored indeed to be associated with them.

All members of the staff of the College of Education salute its thousands of alumni who have done their job so well in the classroom and in the home; as teachers, administrators, homemakers, and statesmen; in Ohio, throughout our nation and over the world. All of us welcome this opportunity to pay you homage and to remind you that we are always available to assist you. Let us know your needs.

Center for Educational Service

Serving the Community

The Center for Educational Service, established in 1947, is a relatively new division of the College of Education, and, as its name suggests, is designed to make available the resources of the College of Education and the university to educational workers—teachers, administrators, and supervisors—and to boards of education and the public in communities served by Ohio University.

Director F. H. McKelvey states that the center's chief functions are: (1) To provide consultant services in such areas as curriculum planning, use of community resources, audio-visual education, guidance programs, school-community relations, and supervisory and administrative problems. Such consultative service may involve one or several staff members and may be a single meeting or a series of conferences and meetings.

(2) To conduct school surveys of educational programs and curricula, school building and site needs, and organization of school districts. (3) To assist in solution of professional problems through off-campus and on-campus workshops. (4) To promote conferences on vital problems confronting public education. (5) To publish those studies and reports (Continued on page 9)

Faculty Sketches

By BOB MCCREANOR, '48

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of "sketches" of faculty members in the order of their seniority on the Ohio University teaching staff.

It's dangerous to try to characterize a person with adjectives. One runs the risk of oversimplification quite unfair to the subject.

To term A. W. Boetticher, '17, associate professor of botany, "competent, sincere, friendly" without amplifying the terms is very close to platitudinous. But ask his teacher colleagues and his students what they think of A. W. Boetticher, the man and the teacher, and odds are you'll get such adjectives. You'll also get amplification.

They find support for the "friendly" label in his consistent attitude of helpfulness toward both his fellow teachers and his students. About the latter he has a deep concern for both their academic and non-academic welfare.

Testimony shows that Professor Boetticher, a teacher 45 years, 34 of them at Ohio University, long ago found the key to what might be the secret to successful and satisfying teaching. His is not the merely adequate approach of the pedagogical guide, but that of the friend and counselor as well.

His competency is evidenced by his record of service to his university and his profession, the success of the students who learned through him, and the esteem in which he is held by the associates—both students and teachers.

That he is fundamental—he wants to do the job he is supposed to do without superficial flourishes—is indicative of his sincerity.

After serving as an undergraduate assistant instructor in the Department of Civic Biology under the late Dr. W. A. Matheny, Professor Boetticher was made an instructor following his graduation in 1917. In 1918 he did forest field work with the federal government, returning to the university as an assistant professor. He received his M. S. degree from Ohio State in 1929 and was named an associate professor.

He has seen the university grow from 1,000 students to its present nearly 6,000, with its corresponding increase in service to its own and to the community. And he is confident it has not yet reached the "zenith of its service."

Prior to coming to Ohio University, Professor Boetticher attended Wooster College (then Wooster University) and had been a teacher and administrator in rural schools. He did further research at Ohio State in 1934 and 1935.

Listed in American Men of Science, Professor Boetticher is a member of the American Association for Advancement of Science, charter member of the American Association of Taxonomists, and a member of the Ohio Academy of Science.

Retirement to his farm just outside of Athens is not far off, the veteran teacher admits, but he terms that retirement "just a change in general occupations," and says that for him there will always remain "the rich associations and fine friendships that have been a part of a long teaching career."

On and About the Green . .

IN WHAT IS believed to be an unusual token of esteem of a student governing body for the administration of a university, Ohio University's Student Council recently presented President John C. Baker with a Student Council Key and honorary membership in the organization.

The presentation, at the council's annual Christmas banquet, was made by Ardath Hansen, Athens, vice-president, in recognition of the president's "strong support of and confidence in the council and his friendship to its members in the past years."

In a letter to Milt Taylor, Columbus, Student Council president, Dr. Baker said that he never has received an award which gave him "a greater thrill."

"As long as I live, I shall remember this as one of the most unexpected and . . . one of my most prized honors. The spirit which prompted it made it personal and deeply appreciated."

A NON-THESIS PROGRAM for the master of education degree has been approved for graduate students at Ohio University, effective with the 1950 summer session.

The program, designed and approved by the graduate school council in line with student requests for such a system, is designed especially for teachers, administrators, and others engaged in and preparing for educational work in public schools. The program is available to any student whose major is in a subject taught in the public schools.

Graduate students already started on the thesis program may shift to the non-thesis basis, provided such a move is approved by the committee on graduate study of their major department, and if all other requirements of the non-thesis program are approved.

Dr. W. S. Gamertsfelder, dean of the Graduate College, points out that the new program does not apply to all fields in master's degrees at present and that it is not designed to eliminate the thesis program for graduates except in fields where the idea can best be applied.

FIRST OHIO SHOWING of some 100 photographs by Clarence Hudson White, world famous photographer-artist, who was born at West Carlisle (Coshocton County), was held recently at Ohio University.

Works of the renowned photographer, father of Clarence H. White, Jr., visiting lecturer in photography at Ohio University, have been exhibited all over the world, and he is represented in museum collections in New York, Philadelphia, London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, and other cities. His is the largest collection of prints by any photographer in the Library of Congress.

He was a teacher at Columbia 19 years and founder of the Clarence H. White School of Photography in New York City. His students included Margaret Bourke-White, Anton Bruehl, Paul L. Outerbridge, and many other ranking professionals. He died in 1925.

The New York school was continued by Mrs. White and later by Clarence, Jr., who also assumed the Columbia University position when it was reestablished in 1940. Both that position and the New York school were discontinued in 1942.

THE SCHOOL of Music and the Convocations Committee sponsored a recital by Frances Magnes, brilliant young American violinist at an evening convocation in Alumni Memorial Auditorium this month. An international concert artist, Miss Magnes came to the campus after a soloist appearance with the Cleveland Orchestra and a recital in Columbus. Last month the famed Paganini string quartet was heard in a convocation recital.

STUDENT COUNCIL HONORS PRESIDENT
" . . . for support of and confidence in the council"

Director of Admissions Frank B. Dilley has announced that now is the time for all students who plan to enter Ohio University in the fall of 1950 to make their applications for admission and for rooms in the residence halls of the university. This is especially true for women, he said, but not so urgent for men, who can live in town if they cannot be given university housing. Women applicants should apply not later than May or early June, since all women are expected to live in the university residence halls. He pointed out that applications for admission and for rooms may be made at the completion of the junior year in high school.

Beginning with the fall of 1950, out-of-state high school graduates who are in the upper 50 per cent of their class may be eligible to enter Ohio University. Previously, out-of-state enrollment was restricted to applicants in the upper one-third of their high school graduating group.

In making the announcement of the revised admission policy for out-of-state applicants, Dr. Dilley emphasized that sons and daughters of alumni living outside of Ohio should not hesitate to make application for admission. He expects to be able to admit all of them.

With the Faculty

■ The following staff members of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech attended the joint conventions of the American Speech Association, the American Speech and Hearing Association, and the American Educational Theater Association in Chicago: Dr. Elizabeth Andersch, Dr. A. C. LaFollette, Dr. Claude E. Kantner, Miss Jane Beasley, Marvin Robinson, William Lewis, and Richard Yoo. Dean Earl C. Seigfred of the College of Fine Arts accompanied the group.

■ A painting by L. C. Mitchell, director of the School of Painting and Allied Arts, brought the eighth highest price at the art auction held by the Capper Foundation for Crippled Children at Topeka, Kans. Professor Mitchell, well-known in art circles, joined more than 200 other American artists in donating pictures to the foundation for a two-day exhibit, which was concluded with the auction sponsored by the Topeka Women's Club. His painting, sold at the auction for $150, was "Blennerhassett Island," a 24 by 36 inch oil, a duplicate of which now hangs in the Cutler Hall office of Dean W. S. Gamertsfelder.

■ At the mid-winter meeting of the Ohio Psychological Association, Dr. Amos C. Anderson, professor of psychology, was elected president of the association.

From the President's Office

(Editor's Note: The following is the first of a series of short monthly articles in which President John C. Baker will bring to alumni an informal, personal note about their University—its plans and aspirations, its problems, and its accomplishments.)

The number one problem at Ohio University today is to let you, the alumni, know what has occurred in the past few years at your University. Briefly, we have been building in every way on the University's great traditions—elaborating and improving on ideas and past policies which you remember so well. Because of these many changes, the problem we at the University face is one of communication—of conveying to you and to the public news of the University. We can partially solve this problem by articles and pictures in the Alumnus and in the Green and White describing the physical, cultural, and intellectual growth that has occurred in recent years, and you can pass this news on to others. This, however, tells only part of the story; a complete solution to this problem will depend on you—on your visiting your Alma Mater. Only by seeing and feeling what has occurred here in recent years can you really learn to know your present-day University. We hope you will return any time—at Commencement, Homecoming, Mother's and Dad's Day, or any other time it is convenient for you to do so. We want you to know your University as it is in 1950.

The most noticeable changes, of course, will be physical ones, the many new buildings which have been erected here and there on the campus. In addition, many old buildings have been completely renovated. Over five millions of dollars have been spent on this program, and when you visit us you will see new dormitories, classroom buildings, a swimming pool, chemistry and engineering buildings, the renovation of Cutler and Ewing Halls, and other improvements.

The educational changes are also great. It is fair to say that over the last eight years the faculty and administration have completely reviewed our entire educational program. New courses have been added, many old courses have been dropped or combined, and objectives have been clearly outlined in all departments. Your University's concern is quality work in every department. Its interest, as always in the past, is directed at the individual student and not at mass education. In raising standards, it is not our function simply to make it harder so that more students are "flunked out" but rather to help individual students succeed according to their abilities. Good examples of this philosophy are the Speech and English programs. It has long been recognized that training in English in high school and college has been inadequate. Today the new program aims to help every student excel in written and spoken English. Special clinics have been established for those who have not been properly trained in past years and need individual help to attain a certain level of proficiency. An advanced course has been organized in English for the top three per cent of the class so that this group may receive special advanced instruction. I am sure you will be delighted with the enthusiasm and support among students for this modern educational program.

Do pay us a visit soon and learn to know your University.

■ Staff members and speech correction majors of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech recently served in an advisory capacity at two special clinics where children with speech defects were examined. One was held at Mt. Vernon, in conjunction with an Ohio University extension course being offered there, and the other at Chillicothe.

Former students who are of the Episcopalian faith are requested to send their name and address to the Church of the Good Shepherd, 64 University Terrace, Athens, Ohio. A new Episcopal church is to be built on University Terrace, and the Building Committee wishes to get complete information about the project to Episcopalian alumni.

On The Alumni Front

BECAUSE of his desire that Ohio University be linked with its alumni by as close and personal ties as possible, President Baker has asked a representative committee of alumni to survey all present activities in the alumni field and to recommend any improvement on broadening of the program that may seem desirable.

The committee, headed by Dr. Don D. Tullis, '98, Athens, immediate past president of the Ohio University Alumni Association, gives representation to a wide range of age groups, but was selected entirely from the state of Ohio for the greater convenience of the members in getting together.

Sub-committees are currently studying various phases of the agenda and their recommendations will be incorporated in a report to be published in June.

IN SPITE of dates that were not too favorable, success crowned the efforts of chapter officers and committees of two of Ohio University's farthest-flung outposts in meetings held during the week after Christmas.

Originally scheduled to take advantage of the anticipated presence on the West Coast of Head Football Coach Carroll Widdoes for the Rose Bowl game, the plans were carried out even though affairs on the campus prevented the genial athletic official from making the western trek.

On December 28, fifty-seven members and guests of the San Francisco Bay Area chapter enjoyed a dinner and program at the Commissioned Officers' Club at the Naval Base on Treasure Island. Chapter President W. H. Keplinger, '25, was the presiding officer.

Dr. Stanley Dougan, '14, San Jose, gave a report of his visit to Ohio U. last June for the 35th anniversary reunion of his graduating class. Another speaker was Charles S. Kirkendall, '83, El Cerrito, a nonagenarian who shares jointly with his sister and classmate, Mrs. Margaret Kirkendall Campbell, Boulder, Colo., the distinction of being the second oldest living alumnus in point of years since graduation.

Movies of last fall's Ohio-West Virginia football game and of campus scenes, band and glee club recordings of university songs, and transcribed messages from President Baker and Alumni Secretary Williams were other program features.

Lewis A. Terven, '29, and Mrs. Terven, Salinas, and Paul H. Henry, '32, and Mrs. Henry (Elsie Armstrong, '29, 2-yr.), Needles, were credited with having made the longest trips to attend the meeting.

New officers elected were: Frank G. Fribley, Jr., '38, president; Albert C. Bergesen, '37, vice president; T. H. Ivary, '42, treasurer; and Clyde W. White, '09, and Dr. Raymond Nutting, '13, directors. James Claymore, '42, was elected secretary for the third successive year.

Thirty-eight alumni living in the City of the Angels and its environs gathered at the Harry Raymond Steak House in San Marino for a lively get-together on December 30.

The calls for the reunion were sounded by James W. Wisda, '09, chapter president, and Mrs. Guy E. Saylor, (Lenore Van Dyke, '21, 2-yr.), secretary.

Dr. Harry E. Benz, professor of education and, until recently, acting dean of the College of Education, attended the dinner as a representative-in-person of the campus. Dr. Benz, the guest speaker, was accompanied by Mrs. Benz, who, like her husband, is known by large numbers of alumni.

William R. Blumenthal, '14, gave an "eye-witness" account of last June's commencement exercises and of his class reunion activities. The personal messages of Dr. Benz and Mr. Blumenthal, augmented by the campus movies, the O. U. Band recordings, and the transcribed greetings of President Baker and Clark Williams, all served to set off a period of reminiscing which followed the more formal program.

One highlight of the evening was a brief visit by Bill Trautwein and Dick Widdoes, members of the Ohio State University football team. Trautwein, who three days later blocked a California punt, and Widdoes, who held the ball for the successful field goal try, both crucial plays that brought victory to the Scarlet and Gray in the Rose Bowl game, are sons, respectively, of W. J. Trautwein and Carroll C. Widdoes of Ohio University's athletic staff.

Mr. Blumenthal was elected president and Harold R. Oppen, '46x, secretary for the coming year.

ALUMNI SURVEY COMMITTEE MEETS IN CUTLER HALL

HECHT APPOINTED TO NEW ALUMNI OFFICE POSITION

Announcement has been made by President Baker of the appointment of Martin L. Hecht, '46, to the position of assistant alumni secretary at Ohio University. At present director of personnel, he will carry a joint title until such time as a suitable person is secured to take over the duties of the latter position.

Mr. Hecht is a graduate of East Cleveland's Shaw High School. Prior to matriculation at Ohio U., he was for two years an accountant with the White Motor Company in Cleveland. His university work was interrupted by more than four years of war service, 30 months of it in India.

Following graduation from the university, he accepted a position as assistant executive secretary of Phi Delta Theta fraternity at the national headquarters in Oxford, Ohio.

On Jan. 5, 1948, Mr. Hecht returned to his alma mater as acting director of personnel. For reference to his new duties, see page 2.

The new assistant secretary married Miss Jean Righter of Cleveland, a former student at Ohio Wesleyan University, in September, 1944. They are now the parents of two children: Holly 3½ years of age, and Ross, 9 months.

which will aid in solving educational problems and to distribute other publications, and (6) to encourage co-operative attack by teachers, administrators, boards of education, and the public toward solution of educational needs.

The Center for Educational Service has its headquarters in the Edwin Watts Chubb Library. Here a collection of materials from public school systems and universities from all parts of the United States forms a curriculum and administrative laboratory. These materials are available to students and staff members for on-campus courses, to workshop and study groups for resource material, and selected items may be loaned to teachers and administrators for committee work in their own school systems.

The center currently is assisting study groups of the county and exempted village and city superintendents in the areas of elementary curriculum, secondary curriculum, and supervision, with Dr. W. A. Yauch, Dr. Harry Benz, and Professor McKelvey as consultants. Another group, that of the high school principals in Athens, Gallia, Jackson, Meigs, and Vinton counties, is studying in a series of discussion groups the guidance programs in their schools and ways in which they can be improved.

An Extended Health Education project encourages health education programs both in public schools and in community groups. Many university staff members have participated in conferences and meetings and given talks to professional and community groups.

Publications of the center include A Study of School District Reorganization in Ohio (1948); Annual Conference Reports (1949) on Public Relations Responsibilities of Administrators and Boards of Education; Meeting the Needs of High School Students—Today and Tomorrow; A Survey of the Elementary School Building Needs in Marietta, Ohio (1949); and Teaching Materials for Health Education (1950).

Studies in process deal with a survey of elementary building sites in Marietta Local School District, Washington County, building programs in Middleport and Gallipolis, and a Citizens' Community School Study, Green School District, Hocking County.

WARREN HACKER ADMITTED TO CLEVELAND LAW FIRM

WARREN E. HACKER

Cleveland lawyer

Warren E. Hacker, '37, has been admitted to the law firm of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, of Cleveland.

Mr. Hacker joined the well-known Cleveland organization in 1940, shortly after his graduation from the Harvard Law School. A specialist in tax law, he was admitted to practice in Ohio in 1940. At Ohio University, he was student assistant under Prof. Albert C. Gubitz in the economics department.

Elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Ohio University, Mr. Hacker, as a first-year student at Harvard, won the Rutherford B. Hayes Scholarship. In his second and third years, he was awarded Faculty Scholarships. He was a member of the Harlan Law Club and its student advisor in his second year. In his third year, he was awarded the school prize for the best-written opinion by a student judge in the Ames Competition. He was graduated in the top 10 per cent of his class.

Mr. Hacker is a member of the Cleveland Bohat Club, Harvard Club of Cleveland, Harvard Law School Association, Cleveland Bar Association, Ohio State Bar Association, and American Bar Association.

Consultant service is available without direct cost, or at nominal costs when an extensive survey is made. Arrangements for consultant and survey services and workshops may be made with the director of the center.

The Bobcat Sports Review

By VIC SHEROW, '29

Driving down the home stretch in their 20-game schedule, Ohio's cagers are hoping Lady Luck will ride with them as they strive to salvage an honorable average in the won and lost columns for the first season under Coach Jim Snyder.

With only three wins in their first eleven games, lack of experience on the part of most of the players has been a decided factor in many of the eight games that have been dropped to the opponents.

After a losing streak extending over five games, the Bobcats tacked on their third win Jan. 28 when they tripped the Miami Redskins 79 to 70 before the home fans, their second Mid-American Conference win against three losses, but still good for third place behind Western Michigan (3 and 1) and Cincinnati, with five straight league wins and no losses.

Winning only one game in four played prior to the Christmas vacation period, the Bobcats started the 1950 section of the schedule with a decisive 84 to 66 victory over Western Reserve on the latter's home floor, but then ran into some of their toughest opposition and dropped five straight tilts.

Dayton, at the time riding high with only one loss in 14 games, rapped the Bobcats 71 to 61 on the home floor, but the Flyers saw their remarkable record shot full of holes the final week in January when they played four straight nights on the road and came out on the short end of the count in each tilt. The Bobcats get another try at the Flyers Feb. 7 at Dayton.

Western Michigan, with its sophomore players having a decidedly "hot" night, trounced Ohio 81 to 56 at home, and then the Bobcats hit the road to suffer a 74-54 loss at Bowling Green and a 57-38 defeat by the Cincinnati Bearcats at the new Cincinnati Gardens. The Bearcats came to Athens four nights later and walloped the Bobcats 76 to 51, after the two teams had played on even terms during the first half.

Supporters of the team are hoping the boys may have found themselves in the Miami game and can go through the remainder of the schedule with much greater success. But there are no breathers on that schedule, with Butler, Dayton, Western Reserve, Muskingum, Miami, Akron, Marietta and Western Michigan remaining to be played.

Despite the preponderance of defeats on this year's record to date, the current Bobcats are in about the same position as last year's squad which won six games in its 22-game schedule. Both had only three wins in their first 11 games, but this year's team has collected 633 points to 587 for last year's mark.

Currently the Bobcats hold a national rating in free throw shooting, ranking 16th with a 64.9 average in the latest tabulation, but they boosted their average to 65.8 mainly by virtue of collecting 25 foul goal pointers in 31 attempts against Miami.

Guard Elwood Sparks of Portsmouth took over the scoring lead in the last two games and has a total of 122 for 11 games, an average of 11.1 per contest. In the past few games, Sparks has been displaying the deadly set shot which was one of the big factors in the 14-game undefeated record of last year's freshman team.

Glen Hursey, sophomore guard who has been playing at a forward berth the past two games, rates second honors with 107 points, while Sophomore Jack Betts, who started the season at forward but has been shifted to the center berth, holds third with 70. Phil McKown, a veteran player, currently rates in fifth place with 58.

COACH BOB WREN'S freshman cagers saw a winning streak which had extended through three seasons and nearly 20 games come to an end the last week in January when they dropped three straight games after marking up wins in their first three starts. This year's frosh carried forward the 14-game winning streak of last year with wins over the Theta Chi, Sigma Chi and Marietta Frosh teams, but then dropped encounters with the Dayton Kittyhawks, Varsity "O" and Miami Frosh.

WITH WRESTLING back on the varsity schedule after a one-year suspension, the Bobcats will engage in six matches this year under the tutelage of Fred Schleicher, Ohio U. graduate of 1947 and former varsity wrestler, who is serving as a part-time coach replacing Thor Olson, who is devoting all his time to his duties as athletic trainer.

The Bobcats clinched a 29 to 2 victory over Findlay College in their opening match, then bumped into the strong Waynesburg grapplers and took the short end of a 27-5 count. Both matches were held in the Men's Gym before near capacity crowds, giving evidence that the mat sport has strong appeal to the student body.

The Bobcats face four more matches, three of them on the road, against West Virginia on Feb. 4, Western Reserve Feb. 11 and a return with Findlay on March 4. The remaining home match will be Feb. 17 against the Ohio State Junior Varsity.

Only an abbreviated schedule could be arranged due to the lateness in making provisions for reviving the sport here this year, according to athletic officials.

A KNOTTY PROBLEM

... but OU's John Suchadolski pins his Findlay College opponent in their season's opener, taking the honors 42 to 33, the same score as marked up in the 1948-49 meet. This gives the Bobcats a three-straight win streak over the Lutherans in their own pool.

The Kent State swimmers, barely able to top the Bobcats last year at Kent, splashed to a 52 to 23 win over the Richey boys in the Ohio Pool a week later, not only taking the meet honors but marking up first place in every event and setting a new pool record for the 50-yard free-style event.

That may have been the last meet in the old Women's Gym pool, unless a contest with Cincinnati, date for which was cancelled due to a conflict and other matters such as final exams, is rescheduled. Next year's natators will have the new swimming pool for their home, with construction scheduled to be completed during the summer.

Still facing the Bobcats are four other meets on the road, Feb. 11 at Ohio Wesleyan, Feb. 15 at Bowling Green, Feb. 17 at Wayne and Feb. 18 at Detroit.

THE 1950 BOBCAT gridders will face a tough 10-game schedule when they swing into action next fall, according to the line-up revealed by W. J. "Dutch" Trautwein, associate director of athletics. This will be the first 10-game schedule in Bobcat history, after many years of playing only eight or nine games.

Opening Sept. 23, prior to the official start of school activities, the Bobcats meet Akron University at Akron and will be busy every following weekend until Nov. 25, when they will play host to Marshall in the season's finale.

With the Thanksgiving vacation period scheduled from Nov. 22 through the 26th, some student agitation has been voiced for a change in the Marshall game, preferably to Dec. 3, but it appears doubtful there will be any change unless it is moved ahead two days to a Thanksgiving Day event. With only four home games listed, the 1950 Bobcats will see plenty of road activity with an inter-sectional flavor added with their trips to Champaign, Buffalo, and Indianapolis.

DON PEDEN, WHO left Athens shortly after Christmas on his retirement after 26 years on the Ohio athletic staff, didn't keep his fingers out of athletics for very long. Announcement was made early this year that he had been signed as a scout for the Cincinnati Reds of the National Baseball League, to cover the territory around his farm home at Keota, Iowa, and in Western Illinois. He'll also assist with spring training for Reds' farm team players in South Carolina.

IN THE words of Fritz Howell, widely known Ohio Associated Press sports editor, OU rightfully deserves an assist for the Ohio State victory over the University of California in the 1950 Rose Bowl game. Howell paid tribute to Ohio University in one of his recent sports columns, which appeared in daily newspapers throughout the state.

He went on to explain, and support his statement, that it was Bill Trautwein, who received his first football instruction at Ohio University, where his father, W. J. "Dutch" Trautwein, is associate director of athletics, who blocked the California kick which set the stage for the second Ohio State touchdown, which tied the score at the 14-all mark and eventually led to the Buckeye victory.

And when the time came that the Bucks were attempting the field goal, which netted the three points and the final margin of their victory, the ball was held by none other than Dick Widdoes, son of Ohio University's director of athletics, Carroll C. Widdoes. Widdoes also held the ball for the two successful point after touchdown conversions and late in the game intercepted a California pass at a time when California was making a very desperate bid to push over another touchdown which would have meant victory to the West Coast outfit.

Movies of the Rose Bowl game clearly show the outstanding work done by young Trautwein throughout the game, or until he was taken out in the second half with a slight shoulder separation, and everyone who has seen them has commented on the Athens' boy's playing ability in the big New Year's Day contest.

Trautwein, who later was elected 1950 football captain at Ohio State, spent last summer as a student at Ohio U., engaging in his hobby of painting, as part of the architecture course he is following at State. Young Widdoes is in the Ohio State dental college.

THOR OLSON, Bobcat trainer for the past 24 years, recently participated in the first annual convention of athletic trainers. During the three-day convention, held in New York City, there were lectures, demonstrations, seminars, and practical instructions by selected authorities covering every phase of scientific training and conditioning. Trainer Olson demonstrated the knee wrap which he developed for football players.

COLUMBUS, OHIO

To the Friends and Alumni of Ohio University

Ohio University has just completed a great accomplishment. A visit to your campus will show you that Ohio University has made more progress than at any time in its long and colorful history. New campus new buildings are being conditioned, new faces have been added to the background and the scholastic atmosphere is on a higher plane than ever before. Knowing Ohio University and seeing the physical progress is a pleasure to address a letter to you who have had much to do in making it so.

The Ohio University Fund has continued to make progress and we are somewhat disappointed that you have not taken part in this program by sending a contribution, no less of how large or small it might be. It has much greater significance than just your contribution to your University and makes a difference back in school. I am appealing to you to support the academic work of the University.

In another letter, Dr. Baker has told you what we have accomplished through your support.

If you can afford to make a contribution, please do so?

OHIO UNIVERSITY

ATHENS, OHIO

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

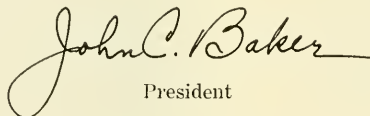

February 7, 1950

To Friends of Ohio University:

This letter brings my personal thanks to all who contributed to the Ohio University Fund this past year, as well as in previous years. No letter of mine, nor of any officer of your Fund for that matter, can possibly convey to you what the Fund means to your University. It, in a sense, is "Personal"; for example, it helps a student in financial trouble; it rewards students for outstanding scholastic achievements; it encourages a faculty member to start a research project or carry out some especially fine idea. In addition, it permits us to purchase important items for the University from time to time, such as the portrait of a favorite professor, or a new piece of research apparatus. Finally, it helps almost daily in the administration of the University.

The constant increase in the number of contributors to the Fund is most gratifying. We hope, too, that the total amount of such contributions in future years will increase so that the fund will be able to assist even more effectively in building a great University. Again, many, many thanks to you all, as well as to the officers of the Fund.

Cordially yours,

ATHENS, OHIO

December 31, 1949

Dear Friends:

In presenting the Fourth Annual Report of the Ohio University Fund, I wish to express my personal thanks, as well as that of the entire University, to all who have given to the Fund and to those of you who have given generously of your time and energy in the Fund work. The Ohio University Fund, Inc., will serve with ever-increasing effectiveness, with the aid of loyal alumni and friends such as you whose efforts made it a part of a growing Ohio University.

It is you, the contributors to the Fund, who are responsible for its projects. You have given students scholarships, and research and laboratory equipment without which there can be no progress in any university. You have provided cultural and intellectual convocations, concerts, lectures and meetings from which the students gain not only knowledge and understanding, but a stimulus as well. The benefits of the Fund cannot be seen full well in printed matter, nor can they be measured in terms of market values.

The possibilities of the Ohio University Fund to the advantage of the University are limited only to the extent to which its alumni and friends contribute to it. The growth of the Fund assures the future of a greater Ohio University, and we cordially invite all alumni and friends to participate in the development of this enterprise. Help build Ohio University by sending a contribution today.

Sincerely,
George A. Banks

PROCEEDS TO BUY NEW BAND UNIFORMS

Here They Are . . . Those Old Favorites You Still Love To Sing

- | | | |
|--------------|-----------------------------|---------------|
| ● ALMA MATER | ● STAND UP AND CHEER | ● GO OHIO |
| ● FANFARE | ● WE ARE THE BOYS FROM OHIO | ● MEN OF OHIO |
| ● MY OHIO | ● GOODBYE, MY OLD OHIO BABY | |

It's a Homecoming on records! Favorite songs you loved to sing in days gone by—songs to be cherished forever.

You'll be proud of your OU Album—and you'll be proud, also, to help the OU Bands in their drive for new uniforms.
